MAGMA table - embracing the Earth

Tune in to the beauty of our planet. With the MAGMA coffee table that represents the Earth's crust, DAM calls attention to the beauty of nature, dynamic yet deeply fragile.

Nowadays, everyone talks about Biophilic Design which reflects the approaching of the interior environments to nature's essence to promote well-being and comfort. But the term "biophilia" was popularized by the psychoanalyst Erich Fromm in the 1960s.

In DAM, we are attracted to nature from the beginning. We find inspiration in nature and select natural materials. Our MAGMA table is an example of that. Composed of a semi-sphere of agglomerated dark cork that evokes the earth's crust, MAGMA features a polished stone top with expressive veins. This surface refers to the molten and semi-molten mineral substances found under the Earth's crust. This way, MAGMA portrays a peculiar narrative about the beauty of our planet, dynamic yet deeply fragile, highlighting what is important to care for and preserve - Nature. The coffee table is available in two sizes and three different stones.

With the MAGMA table, we can contribute to interior spaces less gray and a little more green!
